Animated Zeitgeist, that connects!

Conclusion and Prize Winner of the 24th Stuttgart International Festival of Animated Film press release

Stuttgart, May 8, 2017 - The 24th International Festival of Animated Film (ITFS) ended on 7th May with a festive award ceremony. The program motto "Animation Without Borders" has confirmed itself: this year's program with connections of animated films, games, music, as well as virtual and augmented reality, inspired the audience and industry. The motto also made it clear that animation across borders can tell stories that reach and touch people.

"About 90,000 visitors were present in the cinemas, the open air on the Schlossplatz, the GameZone in the Kunstgebäude and the numerous other venues of the ITFS", summarizes Dittmar Lump, ITFS Managing Director Organisation and Finance. This is an increase of 13% compared to the previous year. "Especially on Fridays and Saturdays, the Open Air was very well attended. The many other guest venues such as the Mercedes Benz Museum, the Breuninger "Wall of Animation 2", the Wilhelma or the Trickfilm lounge in the Gerber, were well attended and this shows that the ITFS also shows a radiation effect beyond the cinemas.

The GameZone as a symbol of this connection took place for the first time in the Kunstgebäude on 2,000 sqm. "The GameZone in the Kunstgebäude is a milestone. We want to set the example for the fact that the games area belongs to today's art and culture scene. In conjunction with high-quality animations and future-oriented projects, it is a laboratory of the future. And best of all, everyone is welcome", says Prof. Ulrich Wegenast, Managing Director Programme of ITFS. And thus closes the arch to the popular open air. But the quality of the ITFS is also evident in the film program. "Sold out cinemas show us that the audience knows that there is a high-quality film programme to see. Trust in us has developed and consolidated over many years," explains Dittmar Lump.

But also on the part of business and politics, it becomes clear what significance and synergies the different event formats ITFS and Animation Production Day (APD), FMX and spotlight have for national and international perception for the economic center of Stuttgart and the state of Baden-Württemberg. Through the introduction of the Animation Germany initiative, which is committed to the international competitiveness of the German animation industry and the first award of the Trickstar Business Award, this becomes clear. It is the world's first prize with an economic focus on innovative business models or projects.

For the first time the Animated Games Award was awarded, which won the best and most innovative computer game from Germany. The honorary trickster went to the Italian animation artist and creator of the famous figure "Signor Rossi": Bruno Bozzetto. A detailed press release will follow on May 8th.

The next International Festival of Animated Film in Stuttgart will take place from April 24 to 29, 2018

Trickstar Business Award

7,500 € endowed, sponsored by the Stuttgart region

Project "The Shadows"

Company: Break Thru Films, Hugh Welshman & Dorota Kobiela, Poland

Jury: At "The Shadows", Dorota Kobiela and Hugh Welchman implement a very unusual but obvious business model and reach completely new, artinterested target groups for the animation project. The key reason for the award to the production company Break Thru Films is, however, that the concept can be derived from a generally valid, economically successful model for artistic-painterly animation film, the cinema evaluation, digital social media campaigns with the aura of a Original painting.
